

ABSTRACT

A system and method for interfacing between Baan software applications and the Internet. The system includes a web page for inputting data into a graphical user interface, an Active X DLL program for compiling the data, a Baan application function server for receiving the data from the Active X DLL program, and Baan software objects for receiving the data from the Baan application function server.

DC: #190379 v1 (42WB01!DOC)